MAYOR'S OFFICE

It's extraordinary how much of our daily lives has changed. There's so many things we're unable to do at the moment like play in the park, swim at the local pool or go on that weekend camping getaway. Or hug loved ones, children and grandchildren through the good and bad times. And not being able to give a best mate a hug just to show you care when their mental health isn't the best. COVID-19 has really changed our social and work paradigms.

We've been through fire, floods and cyclones, and we've proven our resilience time and time again. When we run this marathon together, we will bounce back. We need to continue to inspire one another to keep going. We must stay vigilant and not become complacent or all the hard work will be undone. Council's role is vital to supporting communities before, during, and after these challenging times. We continue to be on the frontline of disaster management planning, mitigation, response and recovery.

We're not going to sugar coat it; we are in a very distressing and uncertain time. Many of our small to medium businesses are reeling from the financial pain and so are our residents, with many finding it difficult to put bread and butter on the table. Many of us are experiencing isolation like never before and it's paramount to keep our mental health in check.

Check in with your family, your workmates, your friends, your neighbours through phone or video calling. Just messaging someone to ask how they are going could be lifesaving. If you are struggling, I personally urge you to please find the courage to be brave and reach out for help. Lifeline provides all Australians experiencing a personal crisis with access to online, phone and face-to-face crisis support and suicide prevention services. Find out how these services can help you, a friend or loved one on 13 11 14.

We have a major focus on human and social concerns. We have been campaigning hard to the State Government to instruct the operators on cutting mass movements and to look at our counterparts in Western Australian and the Northern Territory. We have strongly been encouraging mining companies to implement workforce models that drastically reduce the volume of mass movements and the incorporation of stringent health screening protocols in and out of region.

It will be hard for workers to live away for extended periods of time however this may be a small price to keep families safe, workers employed and doing their essential role to support an economy desperate for productivity. This advocacy has contributed to reducing risks for our region. Our Council continues to work with all levels of government and the private sector to improve our ability to respond to the pandemic and recession simultaneously.

At Isaac Regional Council, we have worked hard to mobilise to a new virtual workplace due to the pandemic to ensure business continuity remains in place. In April, we have endorsed two separate funding opportunities in principle for our region.

The first is to provide targeted critical support for community organisations at genuine risk of collapse due to the inability to deliver programmed functions and fundraising activities, through our Special Emergency Community Grants.

The second is the proposed Community Chest Fund. We aim to provide a temporary fund for the alleviation and relief of hardship suffered by small to medium businesses in Isaac region brought about by the COVID-19 pandemic and anticipated economic instability.

These demonstrate our commitment to providing relief and recovery assistance to complement the funding opportunities made available through the Australian and Queensland governments. We have a great team here to respond to these challenging circumstances – for which I am truly grateful.

This is my official third term as Mayor of the Isaac region and I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for your continued support through thick and thin and express how proud I am to be your Mayor. I would like to acknowledge former Councillors Nick Wheeler and Geoff Bethel for their combined service to their communities and to their region. Their passion and commitment will be missed. A warm welcome to our newly elected Councillors Sandy Moffat of Division 2 and Viv Coleman of Division 8 and their success at the local government election. And, of course, welcome back to our team who were elected unopposed – Greg Austen, Gina Lacey, Simone West, Kelly Vea Vea, Lyn Jones and Jane Pickels. I look forward to working as a team and leading our community during these uncertain times.

Our Council and our communities have certainly been through a lot together. And we will continue to do so, working in solidarity to help one another through this pandemic. Pure people power is in our DNA and we will stand together while we need to stay apart.

Please stay safe, stay connected and stay positive as much as you can.

NEW FOUR-YEAR TERM COUNCIL TAKES THE OATH OVER SKYPE

The Isaac region's newly elected Council have taken their oath in 21st century style from their homes on the coast to the bush through digital airwaves.

The non-conventional special ceremony was conducted by Isaac Regional Council CEO Gary Stevenson PSM who swore in Councillors via video conference to their elected positions. The ceremony kept with best practice for social distancing and reduced the amount of non-essential travel.

Mayor Anne Baker, Division 1 Councillor Greg Austen, Division 3 Councillor Gina Lacey, Division 4 Councillor Simon West, Division 5 Councillor Kelly Vea Vea, Division 6 Councillor Lyn Jones and Division 7 Councillor Jane Pickels were elected unopposed.

Two newly elected members will take their position on Council, Division 2 Councillor Sandy Moffat and Division 8 Councillor Viv Coleman, following success at local polls.

Cr Kelly Vea Vea was appointed as Deputy Mayor at Council's post-election meeting held on 21 April 2020.

Mayor Anne Baker said she was looking forward to another four-year term of Isaac helping to energise the world.

"We are a great Council, made better by the drive and passion of Councillors I am proud to call my colleagues," Mayor Baker said.

"I am grateful to the community who put their trust in this Council to deliver for them."

Mr Stevenson welcomed the Councillors as they took their Declaration of Office over the phone or by video.

"While the regulation adopted by Governor in Council has allowed me to swear in our Councillors via technology, I am most looking forward to the collaboration of this new Council, which will happen regardless of them being in or out of the Council Chambers," Mr Stevenson said.

Mayor Baker acknowledged the contributions of outgoing Councillors Geoff Bethel and Nick Wheeler.

"Thank you to Nick and Geoff for your hard work and dedication with your decades of experience on Council collectively. I would also like to thank all the candidates who nominated in the local government elections. We know better than anyone you do it because you love and care for your community."

MAYOR ANNE BAKER

After starting her local government service in 2007, Cr Baker was elected Mayor of Isaac Regional Council at the 2012 local government elections.

Cr Baker and her husband Frank, who have two adult children and three grandchildren, have lived in Moranbah for the last 24 years.

She is on the board of several regional development organisations and likes to be as active as possible within the community.

Her priorities for the region have been long held around working towards delivery of more family housing and good quality developments, to improve the liveability and attractiveness of the region. She continues to advocate for the region's fair share of funding from the Australian and Queensland governments and she has a continued focus on increased investment in our rural roads and protection of rural land. Cr Baker firmly believes that local government is the key to building stronger communities.

"For me, local government is 'where it is at'. As the closest level of government to the community, we have a responsibility to drive value for money and to build our community's future capacity, into everything we do," she said.

"Delivering responsive and fit for purpose planning and efficient and effective Council services that reflect the broad priorities and values of our ratepayers, is an integral part of that.

"It's an incredible honour to be the Mayor of this region, and honour I am grateful for."

A new generation of workers are furthering their studies and exploring their career prospects as Isaac Regional Council welcomed eight trainees and apprentices to the organisation on 19 March.

“These positions combine hands-on work experience with a nationally recognised qualification,” Mayor Baker said.

“So far 36 per-cent of trainees and apprentices go on to stay at Council, reflecting our outlook that this organisation is built on the strength of pure people power.

NOT-FOR-PROFITS AND THOSE SUFFERING HARDSHIP TO BENEFIT

This pandemic will impact everyone in our community and it’s important we are agile and adapting to an ever-changing situation. Not-for-profits and those suffering financial hardship will benefit from the measures adopted at a special council meeting, with further measures to be reviewed in the coming months as the situation continues to evolve.

In addition to supporting the members facing hardship and not-for-profit organisations, we adopted our Pandemic and Tactical Response Framework to navigate our way through these troubling waters.

This is the framework to how Council will address and manage our own business continuity, our disaster management structure, identifying the community support and our business community support. We are responding to the situation and implementing our strategies to work through this challenge.

At a Council special meeting called specifically to consider these items, Council unanimously adopted our Business Support and our Community Support packages.

Council announced the full support of rates concessions for any not-for-profit organisation, not already receiving 100% relief from their existing rates for the current financial year.

Council also agreed to forgo any interest on outstanding arrears from 11 March for the remainder of the financial year for anybody on a payment arrangement or suffering financial hardship.

Isaac Regional Council is committed to working with all levels of government to support the community through this crisis.

LONG SERVING COUNCILLOR'S FOND FAREWELL

Isaac Regional Councillor Geoff Bethel bid a fond farewell to colleagues following his final Council meeting at Moranbah Chambers on Tuesday, 17 March 2020.

As an elected official, Cr Bethel said it was an honour to stand up for community and work towards the continuous improvement of his division and the region.

"Division 8 is a diverse and unique area, spanning from St Lawrence to Carmila and Ilbilbie on the coast, and inland to Nebo and Coppabella," he said.

"To have the trust of the community to represent their best interests is a big job to live up to, and over the last 18 years I have always stood up for what I believed was best.

"I would like to thank the community for their drive and passion. Seeing the amazing work of the people in the region is the reason I wanted to work hard representing them for so long.

"I know the Division 8 candidates will do a great job and bring some fresh blood into the Council chambers."

Cr Bethel had served on the Broadsound Shire and was re-elected in 2012 to the amalgamated Isaac Regional Council.

The outgoing Chair of the Engineering and Infrastructure Standing Committee said the hard work and dedication of the staff in the organisation made him proud to be a Councillor.

"Our Council workforce are some of the best people I have ever had the honour of working along-side.

Thank you to the incredible staff for all your work in making the Isaac region a great place to live and work.

"I wish all my fellow Councillors, Mayor Baker, CEO Gary Stevenson and his directors the best for the next four years.

"And my biggest thank you goes to my wife Ruth and our children. Your support and understanding have been a pillar of strength."

Isaac Regional Council Mayor Anne Baker congratulated Cr Bethel on his retirement, saying the region was losing a passionate advocate.

"Geoff has been an absolute asset to the organisation, the region, his division and the communities he has represented," Mayor Baker said.

"On behalf of my fellow Councillors and myself, I wish Geoff all the best as he makes his way into retirement."

ISAAC MAYOR'S CHARITY BALL CANCELLED FOR 2020

With the deepest regret, the Isaac Regional Charity Fund has confirmed that the 2020 Mayor's Charity Ball will not go ahead in August.

In light of the Australian Government's new health provisions and the months of planning, scheduling and logistics behind this event, the committee has made the decision based on everyone's safety and a thorough risk assessment.

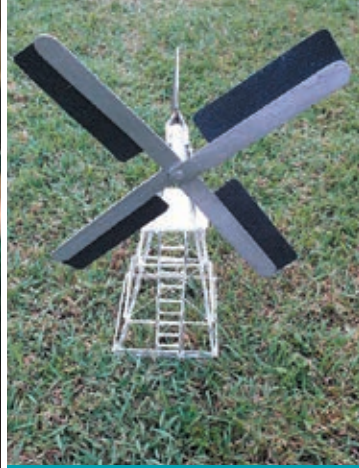

Dates for the 2021 Mayor's Charity Ball will be announced early next year and a genuine thank you to the community and industry stakeholders for their understanding and continued support.

Isaac Regional Charity Fund encourages supporters to listen to health advice being provided by Queensland Health and the Australian Government's Department of Health.

IT'S ALL ABOUT YOUTH - #ISOCREATE INSPIRES DOZENS

Ingenuity, creativity and resourcefulness are in high supply among the youth of Isaac, as 176 participants got involved in the #isocreate competition celebrating Queensland Youth Week, 1-9 April.

Participants had #isocreate kits delivered contactless to their door, filled with 15 different items to develop a product, make an invention, create artwork, design a display, build a costume, make a game or anything they could imagine, with items sourced from local Isaac businesses.

CEO Gary Stevenson said the response was phenomenal, showcasing the resilient and creative nature of the youth across the Isaac region during these trying times.

"We had an unprecedented number of youth registering for their #isocreate kits, and what they created has blown me away," Gary Stevenson said.

"From model aeroplanes and artwork to board games and everything in between, we can rest assured we have a great generation of inventors and creators coming up through the ranks. Congratulations to everyone who submitted their work – electronically – and participated in #isocreate. Times might be tough, but our youth are resilient and worth celebrating. And a big congratulations to our winner and runners up."

The winning projects can be viewed on Council's website - isaac.qld.gov.au/community/youth-week.

The best creation won an iPad to get them through the isolation period ahead with two runners up receiving gift cards to the value of $200.

The theme for Queensland Youth Week 2020 is 'Yeah the youth!' – a celebration of who our young people are and what they offer to our great state.

ST LAWRENCE WETLANDS WEEKEND CALLED OFF FOR 2020

One of Central Queensland's award-winning tourism events will unfortunately not be going ahead as planned in June this year.

The regrettable decision to cancel the 2020 St Lawrence Wetlands Weekend was made after risk assessments were conducted and uncertainty relating to continued limitations on social gathering could not provide alternative dates.

Isaac Regional Council Mayor Anne Baker was very grateful to the supporters, organising committee, our special guests, industry stakeholders and the community of St Lawrence and surrounding areas for their continued work and efforts.

"It was with a heavy heart to cancel this for 2020 but we are in extraordinary times and these decisions must be made I'm sure we can all appreciate and understand," Mayor Baker said.

"Behind every event there's months of planning, scheduling and logistics however with the ongoing restrictions to social gatherings, the cancellation of the event is in everyone's safety.

"We will be back bigger than ever in 2021 with St Lawrence Wetland Weekend and to ensure that and our daily lives return, I encourage you to listen to the health advice being provided by Queensland Health and the Australian Government's Department of Health."

"Isaac Library members also have access to digital magazines, a free music app and children's stories which are read aloud – making story time, anytime.
